

Simon's Specimen Shells Limited

www.simons-specimen-shells.com

Simon's Specimen Shells Limited offers a range of 2500–3000 different molluscan species, in a list that is updated daily on our website. We pride ourselves on our variety – we have sold giant bivalves from hadal depth and terrestrial micros from Nepal; snails from Iran and shells from mainland Antarctica. At any one time we have specimens from over 100 countries available.

Through our website we offer an efficient and meticulous service to internet customers. We are also happy to supply printed lists on request. Many UK customers choose to visit our premises in North Wales and view our entire stock at their leisure.

We are proud to have been supplying specimen shells since 1998 to collectors of all types: specialists, scientific experts, enthusiastic amateurs and budding novices. We supply shells to 10 museums and to collectors in almost 50 countries.

Shells from our stock are illustrated overleaf:

Exquisite: Ceratostoma burnetti (South Korea), Aplustrum amplustre (Hawaii), Pitar lupanaria (Mexico), Semipallium diana (Okinawa), Cypraea guttata (Philippines)

Uncommon: Xenopoma aguayoi (Cuba), Papuina hedleyi (Irian Jaya), Tudivasum zanzibarica (Tanzania), Cardiomya alcocki (Japan), Tiphobia horei (Lake Tanganyika), Conus granulatus (Honduras)

Unusual: Toxicionella elistoni (South Africa), Columbarium s.n. (New Caledonia), sinistral Chicoreus cichoreum (Philippines), Trichamathina nobilis (Kuril Islands), Brechites attrahens (Australia)
